STORY OF THE GREAT STORM AT KEY WEST

Related By An Eye-Witness Who Was Aboard Steam-er Lampasas All During the Gale.

TAMPA, Oct. 15.—The Mallory steamship "Lampasas" came into this port yesterday afternoon, after having weathered the big storm at Key West, in good shape, and only sustaining slight damage, the denting of a side plate, by reason of having a drifting schooner crush into it while tied at the Mallory docks at Key West during the hurricane, which prevailed there yesterday, being the only injury sustained.

The "Lampasas" got into Key West yesterday afternoon, and was to have left Monday morning for Tampa, but the storm warning kept her from sailing and Capt. Smith commenced to make her fast to the dock to enable her to withstand the anticipated blow. It is said that so effectually did he accomplish this that the dock and its surrounding land would have been impelled to give way before the ship had been torn loose from its moorings.

A passenger, in describing the way the "Lampasas" was made so fast, said: "Why, there were thirty-seven huge hawsers lapping one ship, the dock and even the land beyond the pier, the captain having bored great holes in the earth and carried the waters under the dock and around the boat. This he declared saved the ship in a blow which sent adrift or wrecked one hundred or more craft, which lined the city's wharf front."

This passenger, a well-known traveling salesman for a New York ship and machinery house, gave a very vivid description of the devastation wrought at Key West, saying that from the inside of the pilot house of the "Lampasas" he was an eye-witness to nerve-racking scenes which cannot be accurately pictured by word of mouth or described in cold print.

Eye-Witness Tells of Storm.
Nearby where our ship was bravely fighting unharmed through the blow, buildings and roofs were passing by in demolished fragments, roofs were being hurled and timbers, telegraph and telephone poles, trolley wires and even brick walls being piled up in high heaps along the streets."

A most peculiar freak of the wind was described as occurring at the Episcopal church, where, according to the relator of the story, the hurricane lifted the spire high in the air allowing the roof to literally slide from under it, and then depositing the tall tower right down in the middle of the sanctuary.

Other strange freaks of the terrific blow were described, among them the tearing out of the entire front of a curio store on Duval street, carrying it to the rear wall of the establishment, where it was banked up in demolished shape, with a chaotic mass of stock, show cases and counters, the side and rear end walls of the house remaining as if to protect the store front from further progress.

At one point near the Curry wharfs from seventy-five to one hundred fishing craft and other small boats were piled high on top of each other in the street, making a tall eminence upon which people climbed after the wind subsided, to look over the damage wrought all over the city.

This passenger, with all others interviewed, are very loud in praise of Capt. Smith, commander of the "Lampasas," to whose excellent judgment and cool, explicit directions during the storm they attribute the saving of their lives and protection of the ship.

Mr. David Lauber, manager of the Tampa Bay Hotel, who was also a passenger on the "Lampasas," describes the experiences at Key West as awful, and he, too, has high commendation of the behavior of the captain and his crew during the critical period of the blow.

The "Lampasas" left here yesterday for Mobile, after discharging a cargo of merchandise undamaged by the

ENTIRE FAMILY ARE KILLED FOR MONEY

AMOUNT ESTIMATED TO BE BETWEEN $6,000 AND $10,000.

Was One of the Best Colored Families in the County and Liked by All Classes.

News was received in Gainesville on Friday of a most horrible murder and robbery in Columbia county, near Fort White, and only a short distance between the dividing line of this and the former county.

From parties who arrived from Fort White it was learned that an entire family were killed, supposedly all of the eye-witnesses to the affair, and the money taken from the home of the murdered people after the deed was committed.

The killing occurred on what is known in that section as the old Herlong place, but what is now called the Myers plantation, and as near as possible the facts are about as follows: During late in the evening on Tuesday a white man whose name was Cox called in front of the place and engaged in conversation with Sallor, the son-in-law of the murdered man, and the two men walked up the road and disappeared from sight, when the report of a gun was heard, and the next day the man, Sallor, was found lying in the road, dead from the effects of a pistol shot.

Following this shot the same man, Cox, so witnesses stated, was seen to go back to the house and when within a few feet of Calvin Banks, who was on his porch, he fired upon him, afterwards killing his wife, who was in the kitchen just about fifteen feet from where the husband lay, and who had previously saw the occurrence but was too frightened to move or give alarm.

After killing all three of the parties Cox walked into the home of the negro and took his satchel, which was filled with money, it being variously estimated that the amount was anywhere from $6,000 to $10,000.

A coroner's jury was impaneled and held an investigation of the matter, and the man Cox was taken to Lake City, where he was released under a bond of $400 and is now at liberty.

Banks was an aged darkey of the ante-bellum days and had been a resident of that section for a large number of years, being universally liked by the white and black people alike all over the county. He had by his hard work managed to accumulate a considerable sum of money, farming, which always paid him well, and he managed to sell a large number of beef cattle each year, this always bringing him $300 or over. The general impression is that the negro must have had not less than $2,000 or $3,000 at the time of his murder.

At the trial the evidence was in substance related as above by two of the grandjurors who claimed to have witnessed the entire occurrence, and it has caused great excitement in the town of Fort White, where the negroes were best known. The white people seem to take a great interest in the matter and they are more thoroughly aroused over it than the colored people, for this crime happened just about one year from the time when the Tolen brothers were murdered and robbed on the same place. The Tolens were well-to-do white people and among the wealthiest of that county, and had amassed considerable money, which was kept in the home the same as the old darkey kept his.

When the negro, Sallor, was found the next day the hogs had devoured part of his head, where it had been beaten by a knot after the shooting, and the whole murdered trio lay just as they had been left for several hours before the alarm was finally

SOUTH SUFFERS MUCH DAMAGE FROM STORM

High Winds Prevailed Over Large Area---Hail-Stones As Large As Oranges at Rome.

ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—The worst hailstorm perhaps that the South has ever experienced, with its accompanying heavy wind and electrical display, assuming in some sections cyclonic proportions, left serious damage to crops and property in its wake through North Georgia, North Alabama and Tennessee, late Thursday afternoon, and claimed several lives in the latter State. With wire communication badly crippled in every direction and hundreds of towns in the path of the disturbance entirely isolated, it is impossible with the meagre reports received to estimate the damage, but it is believed here that the cotton remaining in the fields in the path of the storm is practically a total loss, with the damage to the property running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Starting about sixty miles east of Atlanta at 5 o'clock the storm swept northwest, and inside of two hours had traversed a large section of this State, crossed several counties in Tennessee and was last reported moving westward over North Alabama. Hailstones varying in size from one to three inches in diameter fell all the way from Atlanta, Ga., to Decatur, Ala., and at Tennessee points.

Denmark, in Madison county, Tenn., is practically demolished, the added horror of fire following quickly in the wake of the storm. At this place eighteen of the more modern buildings were torn from their foundations and wrecked, while the smaller buildings were demolished. Of the fatalities, two occurred at Denmark. Albert Barnes and his child, an infant, were caught among the falling timbers of their home and crushed to death. Mrs. Barnes was injured near Mulberry in Lincoln county, Tennessee.

Thomas Helm was killed and Homer Ashby and his wife were injured. Near Wartrace, Tenn., a negro settlement was blown away.

DAMAGE IN ATLANTA.
ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 15.—A wind and hailstorm of cyclonic proportions struck Atlanta at 5:20 Thursday afternoon and left a trail of wreck and ruin behind it. Hundreds of windows were broken, chimneys were blown down, trees uprooted and houses were unroofed. The property loss is estimated at at least $100,000. There were no casualties. The storm lasted only twelve minutes, but the wind attained and held a velocity of fifty-six miles an hour. Pedestrians were blown against buildings and in some instances through windows. The covers of umbrellas were stripped from them by the hail stones, one of which measured fourteen inches.

Street car traffic was suspended for a time. Electric light wires strung through the streets made travel very unsafe. Telephone and telegraph wires were down in all directions and several nearby cities were cut off.

WIRES ALL DOWN.
MEMPHIS, Oct. 15.—That a destructive storm of wind and hail swept over west and middle Tennessee and north Alabama, early Thursday night is evidenced by the fact that no communication of any character can be had with these sections. Telegraph and telephone wires are down and reports from small towns in the extreme western counties of Tennessee state that a severe windstorm occurred, unroofing

Boy Kills His Father For Mistreating His Mother

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 15.—Colbert L. Abernethy, one of the best farmers and stock raisers in North Carolina, was shot and instantly killed at an early hour yesterday morning in a desperate encounter with his son, Reuben, aged 20, after the father had made an unsuccessful effort to kill the son. The tragedy occurred at the family home, Openview, in Gaston county, and was witnessed by the wife and mother, Abernethy entered his son's room yesterday morning, precipitated a quarrel over a trivial matter and drawing a pistol fired three shots at the boy, neither taking effect. The son grappled with him and in the fierce hand-to-hand struggle that ensued the pistol was discharged twice, both shots taking vital effect in the father. There had been bad blood between the two because of the father's treatment of his wife, which the boy resented.

North Carolina Man Cuts Off Head of Father-in-Law

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 15.—W. S. a wealthy farmer of Lincoln county, cut off the head of his father-in-law, Joseph Hallman, with an axe yesterday morning, then buried the head of his home, set fire to the furniture and was cremated. Wise appeared a few minutes before the coroner, but strange remarks caused him to be taken away.

she ran to her father's home and awakened him. Wise met the aged man as he neared the house and severed his head completely with one blow of the axe, and rushing back into the house broke up the furniture with the same axe, and arranged his own funeral pyre. The tragedy occurred at 2 o'clock near a bridge church.

Seaboard Is Operating Trains By the Telephone

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Oct. 15.—On September 4th the Seaboard Air Line put into service its new telephone train dispatching circuit between Raleigh and Monroe, N. C., 148 miles. This part of the road is single track and handles a heavy traffic, the movement of trains being assisted by a lock telephone system. The dispatcher is located at Hamlet, N. C., 95 miles from Raleigh.

Western Electric telephones and Gill main line bridged selectors are used throughout this equipment. There are 29 selector way stations and two siding telephones located in the weatherproof booths at blind sidings. Two portable telephones are provided for wreck cars. These may be connected to the dispatcher's line at any point by means of a jointed line pole.

Mr. W. F. Williams, superintendent of telegraph, who has charge of the work, states that the telephone circuit has worked perfectly ever since being put into service. He says that the transmission could not be better, and to indicate the character of the circuit he has installed states that he has heard a watch tick over the entire 148 miles of the line.

The officials of the road consider that the service on this division has been very distinctly improved since adopting the telephone, while the dispatchers find that they can handle the business faster, more comprehensively and with less fatigue.

One Negro Killed Another Over a Suit of Clothes

OCALA, Oct. 15.—As a result of a quarrel as to the owners of a suit of clothes, Will Davis shot and killed Henry Jackson at Ocala Tuesday night, and is now locked up in the county jail. After words Davis turned and picked up a shot, struck Jackson and fled to the woods where he was found asleep by Deputy Sheriff Sheahan an hour later. The prisoner was brought to this city yesterday morning and will be given a preliminary trial before Judge Ford in a few

CITY ELECTION WILL OCCUR NEXT TUESDAY.

LITTLE INTEREST BEING TAKEN BY CANDIDATES.

Only About Half of Registered Voters Will Be Cast in the Coming Contest.

The special city election which will be held in Gainesville on next Tuesday is creating less excitement than any city election ever before held here, probably for the reason that it is only to fill the office of marshal made vacant by the resignation of Marshal Arnow.

Heretofore for a number of years the darkies have exercised a great power in the election of city officers, but even this class of voters have varied from their rules and are taking practically no interest in the coming contest, and the few votes that are cast on next Tuesday will be voluntary on the part of all, for even the candidates are not making any great effort in soliciting the support of the people outside of their announcement.

There will be something like 350 or 400 votes cast at the coming city election, about one-half of the qualified voters, and judging from the appearance at present, the race will be close between the candidates, Messrs. Dell and Owens.

When the candidates first announced both were very active, but for the past two weeks they have allowed the matter to die out and are taking little interest in the campaign themselves, believing that everyone who intends voting have their minds made up for their choice.

storm, and freeing a lot of passengers from New York, who had an experience rarely met with in a lifetime and as one of them expressed it, "one which beforehand I would not have undertaken to have gone through with for $5,000, and one, now that I have had it, I would not have misad for a like amount."

OPENING OF SEASON.

New Baird Was Well Filled on Friday Evening.

The New Baird Theatre on Friday evening was well filled by an appreciative audience who had assembled to witness the performance of "St. Elmo," the beautiful romance by a Southern novelist, and which has been read and re-read by many. The company producing the play is one well worthy of merit, and Manager McCollum is to be commended in securing an opening attraction which has given such universal satisfaction.

The story of St. Elmo has been read by so many and the plot so widely known that a description of the plot would be superfluous. St. Elmo on the stage is a pleasing, artistic production. Nor is the production lacking in science embellishment, the leading feature of which is the library room in the Murray establishment.

The central idea, namely that the love of a good woman may restore to his normal self a man who, through deceit and treachery, has lost faith in everything, in human fairness as well as Divine justice, and has made a pariah of himself, is carried out in Mr. Twomey's dramatization in forceful, fascinating style. The members in the cast share equally in the credit of making the drama a success. On the whole "St. Elmo" proved a charming play and fully merited the liberal patronage accorded it.

Mothers find Perry Davis' Painkiller invaluable in the nursery, and it should be kept at hand in case of accident. For pain in the breast take a little Painkiller in sweetened milk and water, bathing the breast in it clear at the same time. If the milk passages are clogged, from cold, or other causes, bathing in the Painkiller will give immediate relief. Ask for New 35c bottle.

DAMAGE IN ROME.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 15.—A terrific rain, wind and hailstorm of fifteen minutes' duration shortly after 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon smashed thousands of windows, including plate glass store fronts, uprooted trees, tore roofs from buildings in all parts of the city and wreaked damage generally. It is believed that crops in this section have been practically ruined.

The street railway and electric light systems were out of commission. Hailstones as large as oranges fell.

STORM AT CHATTANOOGA.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 15.—A severe electric storm passed over this city shortly after 7 o'clock last evening. Telephone and street car service were badly hampered for an hour or more. Hixson, Cleveland and other nearby points report the most damaging hail and windstorm in years.

HAILSTONES LARGE AS WALNUTS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 15.—A severe electric storm passed over this city shortly after 7 o'clock last night, during which many windows were broken by hailstones as large as walnuts.

Mr. Ferman Calcott is on the sick list with chills and fever.

Meeting Tuesday Night.

The Alachua County School Improvement Association was organized last week, and in the course of business transacted it was decided to hold a rally at the court house on Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, at 7:30 o'clock.

GAINESVILLE WILL HAVE TOURIST RATE

SHOULD BE GENERALLY ADVERTISED BY CITY.

Tickets Will Also Have Stop-Over Privileges During the Coming Tourist Season.

Gainesville will have the tourist rate during the coming season, and will also have stop-over privileges on through tickets to St. Petersburg and other tourist points, so it was stated Friday by a gentleman who has been in correspondence about the matter for many months past. While this matter was agitated a great deal during the past season it seems that only a few of the most prominent workers have kept the same before the railway people and it was through their efforts that Gainesville will have this prestige and one which will give her a handsome tourist business this season if properly advertised and pushed by the Board of Trade. That this move will prove of great benefit to Gainesville and the surrounding country there is little doubt, and now the step that should be taken at once is for the amusement of the people when they visit here. Give them some places to go and spend their time, besides walking about the dusty streets, and it will be only a question of a few winters before we will have the great overflow of travel as was experienced here in the early days of the city. Gainesville has two fine hotels, and if necessary other places are here and obtainable that could be easily used for the accommodation of many people during part of the year. A few well-satisfied ones this season would double the business another year. The Board of Trade should interest themselves and advertise the town, get up an interesting booklet with news of the city and state in a few plain facts just what amusements and entertainment people could expect by coming to this place.

MATERIAL HAS ARRIVED.

Was Made to Order to Complete New Home of Major Thomas. The material for the new and handsome home of Major W. R. Thomas has at last arrived. It was especially constructed for this building, which means that it will now be completed without further delay. This place, which was started by the late C. W. Chase, is probably the most expensive house in the central part of the State. All of the doors, mantels, sash, mouldings and blinds had to be specially made for the building, and it has taken the company that had the contract something over six months to fill the order. Major Thomas stated Friday that he was glad that they had at last arrived, and on Monday he would start the carpenters at work and not cease until the same is completed and ready for occupancy.

LAID TO REST.

Albert Robinson's Remains Interred in Archer Cemetery. ARCHER, Oct. 15.—The body of little Albert Robinson, who was so badly burned that death relieved him of his suffering, was laid to rest in the Archer cemetery on Wednesday. The remains were taken from Dr. Rice's office to the Presbyterian church, Dr. Newman preaching the sermon to a large congregation. Little Albert was a general favorite and his many friends came to pay their last tribute. Beautiful flowers covered his grave. His mother, Mrs. Annie B. Robinson, desires to express her sincere thanks to the many friends who were so kind and attentive to her dear boy in his affliction and death.

Judge Wall has issued an injunction against the sale of the Manatee county bonds voted to the amount of $250,000. A majority of the board of county commissioners refused to sign a resolution stating how they intended to spend the money, and this brought about the restraining order.

The position of Charles W. Morse, frenzied financier, newly elected president of several corporations and liquidator of six millions of dollars of debts which were largely the result of fraudulent banking, says The Pensacola Journal, is about as anomalous as one may ever expect to see. He languishes in the Tombs prison while his case is being appealed and it appears likely that the United States Supreme Court will confirm his fifteen-year sentence. And should he have to serve his term how will he be able to continue in his many offices and transact business when locked up in the Government prison at Atlanta?

The Military Carnival to be held in Jacksonville the latter part of November is not a private affair, as have been the so-called carnivals of the past years, but a public enterprise for the entertainment of visitors. The net proceeds, if any, will go to the benefit of the National Guard of Jacksonville, and the business men of the city all have an interest in the success of the carnival, which will be a street affair. Major Cromwell Gibbons is the prime mover in the enterprise and the fact that he is at the head of the carnival assures its success. Visitors during Carnival week this year can rest assured that they will be well repaid for the trip.

CHARITABLE ADVERTISING.

"This afternoon we want to have a little talk on the subject of charitable advertising," says The Pensacola Evening News. "And charitable advertising is a subject that one can not discuss any too carefully."

"It is assume" that the up-to-date merchant and business man makes an annual appropriation for advertising. As a general rule this advertising is not classified—such as newspaper, hand bills, posters, circulars, bill board, etc.

"Some church, or society, goes to a merchant with a program for some entertainment and wants to sell a five-dollar space. The merchant pays the five dollars and charges it up to advertising."

"Another church or society will get up a scheme, and when the merchant contributes to it he likewise charges it to advertising, when, if he would be honest with himself he would charge it to charity, for few ever expect to get any results from them."

"All of this hurts the advertiser and the legitimate advertising man, because when the merchant's advertising appropriation is exhausted the advertising man does not get the business, and the merchant does not get the results he ought to be getting through the advertising that he would be running were his appropriation not exhausted."

"We have no word of censure for the charitable organizations that get up these schemes but we do object to the business man charging it off against his advertising appropriation."

"Every business house is called on more or less to contribute to charitable enterprises and causes, and it is nothing but right that they should so contribute, but they have no more right to charge these contributions, for that is what they are, to advertising than they would to their interest account."

The U. S. Civil Service Commission announces that a very small proportion of the applications thus far filed for the examination to be held on October 23 for the positions in the Census Bureau are from the residents of the more distant States. It is expected that about three thousand appointments will be made from the examination which is scheduled to be held on October 23, 1909, in all the States and Territories. These appointments will be for terms of six months to two years and will average about one year in length. The entrance salary will be $600 per annum, and promotion to at least $900 per annum will be reasonably rapid for those who render satisfactory service. Applicants must be between the age of 18 and 50 years, except that persons honorably discharged from the military or naval service, by reason of disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty, may be examined without regard to age. It is understood that the Census Bureau will make some appointments from this examination about January 1, 1910, but the majority of such appointments will be made between April and August, 1910.

"Chicago seems to be on the verge of prohibition," says The Atlanta Journal. Well, if Chicago falls in the wet-oerats of this country may as well hang their harps on a weeping willow tree.

And thirty minutes later through a misty haze of smoke—

"Seven Pines, gentlemen, Seven Pines! Ah, that was the battle. One of my legs was shot from under me and"—

THE SLAYER OF MARAT

Charlotte Corday and the Act That Made Her Famous.

PLANS FOR THE MURDER

Way They Were Worked Out and How They Were Put into Execution. Her Own Tragic End and the Final Act of the Brutal Headsman.

Among the instances of fanatic zeal in country and people the act of Charlotte Corday, who was born at Sartre, France, July 27, 1768, who was beheaded at Paris July 1793, stands out in tragic force. Her childhood and early youth were of privation, although she was of noble family. She was educated at convent in Caen and then went to live with an aunt in the same old town Normandy.

She had a serene and lofty beauty, tall and graceful, and her manner full of dignity.

She spent all her leisure in reading. Her books were always those that led to heroism and devotion to country. When the revolution broke in France, Charlotte eagerly took to the reading of politics and public questions. When the Girondists were to fly from Paris they went to Caen and began to hold meetings and make plans for future operations in Paris.

The Girondists were the true republicans and got their name from Gironde, as it was the deputies from that district that had formed the Republican party in the national assembly. The massacres had terrified them, and they had tried to stop the violent measures in the reign of terror.

Charlotte felt a very madness of enthusiasm as she listened to the fiery speeches of these men who denounced Marat. Danton and Robespierre escaped much of the censure for their share in the frightful work of cruelty and death. It was Marat that the Girondists poured their eloquence, for it was he who had caused and ordered the death of their leaders in Paris. In the depths of her heart a purpose was formed to save people from this monster and at any cost to herself.

Into Charlotte's life a tender and respectful love had come to add its influence in these days of strange tumult and calm purpose. She and a young man named Franquelin had been writing each other, and she had given him her portrait and told him that he might love her. When this lover marched away to Paris with the Girondists and the neighboring volunteers, she bade him a calm farewell, for she knew she was going to save him.

After her execution Franquelin went home to his native village in Normandy. In the tender care of his mother he gradually failed, for his heart was broken the day his love perished. Then he came to die he requested that Charlotte's portrait and letters be buried with him, and his grave holds them sacredly.

Charlotte began to prepare for her journey to Paris and the tragedy she had planned. Every effort was made to hide the appearance of a concealed purpose. When she arrived at Paris she at once set about her plans to slay Marat. As a preparation she went to one of the shops of the Palais Royal and bought a dagger-shaped knife, paying for it 60 cents. This she hid in the folds of her dress. Her plan had been to kill Marat in the very convention, where she thought the deed would be avenged by killing her on the spot.

But Marat no longer went to the convention. He was ill with a disease that was slowly killing him, and his body was in a state of disorder and irritation that gave him an agony of suffering. He was only comfortable when in the warm water of his bath. He lived on the first floor of a house in the Rue des Cordeliers, and connected with his home were all the affairs of his journalistic work and from here all his pamphlets and journals were sent out.

After writing two letters asking for an interview, in which she would give him some important news about suspected persons, she got no reply. Then she took her way to the house, insisted that she must see him, and when forbidden entrance by Marat's wife she still urged the importance of her errand. Marat heard the sound of their

Pe-ru-na the Remedy.

DR. J. W. FULLER, Scientific Optician, 208 North Main St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the head for many years. It affected my sense of smell, hearing and sight.

"I spent lots of money with doctors and the use of local applications to relieve me, but to no purpose until my attention was called to the wonderful effects of Peruna.

"I must say that I met with most surprising and satisfactory results. Peruna took hold of the complaint and drove it entirely out of my system.

"Although well along toward the allotted span of man's life, I am as pleased as a child over the results, and feel like a young man again."

Man-a-lin an Ideal Laxative.

voices and shouted out for a reason of the noise that bothered him. When told that it was the woman who had twice written him he bade her come in. The wife, against her will, let her pass.

Marat was in his bath, wrapped in an ink stained sheet, and was writing on a board laid across the bath. Asking her errand, he took down all the details she gave him. When he had the name of each Girondist who was at work in Caen he told her that in a week they would be brought to the guillotine. Then as she stood beside the bath she plunged the knife into his heart, and he died with a cry to his wife to come to him.

Just before her execution she wrote to the Girondists at Caen that she anticipated happiness "with Brutus in the Elysian fields" after her death, and she also wrote tender and loving farewell letters to her relatives and friends.

When she had suffered death the executioner lifted up her head by the hair and struck it a brutal blow with his fist. Just at that moment a gleam of the sun so fell upon it that there was the effect of a bluish upon the dead face.—Boston Globe.

Cleanliness Extra.

In describing his arrival at the town of Cuantla the author of "Mexican Trails" says: "The first thing to attract my eye was 'Grand Banos,' which in English means 'grand baths.' Now, after a day's ride a man craves a 'grand bath' more than all else, so I left the horse and entered. A large placard on the wall bore the following: 'A tub of water, 13 cents; with towel, 18 cents. The person who desires to change the water will pay 10 cents extra.'"

A Missouri Fish Story.

While at the ice pond fishing a few days ago W. R. Sweeney noticed a large spider on a leaf at the edge of the water that seemed to be fishing also. The spider would put one leg in the water, shake it a little bit and then wait. By and by a minnow came to the top and grabbed the spider's foot. This seemed to be what it was waiting for and without a minute's hesitation it sprung onto the minnow, being carried under the water several times, but never releasing its hold on the fish until it ceased to struggle and was dead, when the spider hauled its prey ashore to be devoured at leisure.

In trying to land the struggling minnow the spider would lay hold of a leaf or weed on the shore and hang there with a deathlike grip, and at last landed the catch in that way.

How Animals Learn.

Dr. T. Zell, a German naturalist, has collected many instances to prove that animals learn by experience and thus become wiser than their uneducated parents. Game animals of all kinds, he avers, have learned the range of modern rifles. Greyhounds quickly learn to let rabbits alone, and foxhounds pay no attention to either rabbits or hares. Killer whales and gulls follow whaling vessels, just as vultures follow an army. Crows begin to accompany the chamois hunter as soon as they have seen the result of his first successful shot, and rough legged buzzards follow the sportsman after winged game. The number of birds that kill or injure themselves by flying against telegraph wires is much smaller than it used to be. Dr. Zell also refers to the fact that birds and quadrupeds have learned to disregard passing railway trains, as horses quickly cease to be frightened by automobiles. His instances of the intelligent action exercised by sheep dogs are familiar to all.

A Prompt Reply.

A temperance lecturer was describing to his audience how his life had been influenced by total abstinence.

"You know," he said, "that I am now head of my business. Four years ago there were two men in our office who held positions above mine. One was dismissed through drunkenness, the other was led into crime and is now in prison, and all through that evil drink, the invention of the wicked! Now, what I ask is," he cried, "what has raised me to my present high position?"

"Drink!" was the unexpected reply he received from a member of his audience.

ABSOLUTE CURE OF SKIN ERUPTION

Broke Out on Hips and Legs—Was So Sore, Irritating and Painful that Little Sufferer Could Not Sleep—Scratched Constantly and Kept Growing Worse.

CUTICURA'S EFFECT QUICK AND PERMANENT

"When about two and a half years old my daughter broke out on her hips and the upper parts of her legs with a very irritating and painful eruption. It began in October; the first I noticed was a little red surface and a constant desire on her part to scratch her limbs. She could not sleep and the eruptions got sore, and yellow water came out of them. I had two doctors treat her, but she grew worse under their treatment. Then I bought the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent, and only used them two weeks when she was entirely well. This was in February. She has never had another rough place on her skin, and she is now fourteen years old. I used only half the bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and less than a box of Cuticura Ointment. Mrs. R. R. Whitaker, Winchester, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1908."

DRIVING A NAIL.

More to It Than Simply Hammering It Into the Wood.

One who thinks that the driving of a nail consists simply in getting the whole length of it out of sight has little conception of the real nature of the operation, says the Scientific American. A nail driven by an expert will often hold several times as much as one ill driven, while, too, it is often made to draw the parts into place. If you have ever watched a mechanic driving nails you have doubtless noted that he rarely drives one at right angles with the face of the work. There is a reason for this. Suppose that he is nailing the "sheeting" on the frame of a building and desires to draw the board down tightly against the one below it. He points the nail downward, and a few well considered blows at the last produce the desired effect. If the board is bent edgewise, so that much force is required, probably he will start the nail in the upper edge, pointing very sharply downward. Again, two nails driven in a board at different angles will hold it in place much more firmly than the same nails would if they were driven at right angles with the face of the board.

Did you ever notice that in driving a nail in very hard wood one man will do it successfully, while another succeeds only in doubling the nail up before the point has fairly entered the wood? The difference lies in the fact that the expert strikes the nail fairly and not too hard, "coaxing" it in, while the other strikes too hard and with indirection. It may be properly mentioned right here that in driving a nail into very hard wood it is usually profitable to dip the end in oil or grease. This will not sensibly interfere with the holding qualities of the nail, while it will be found to very materially facilitate its driving.

Origin of Seals.

The origin of seals is lost in the shades of antiquity. In Assyrian and Babylonian ruins seals still are found, and it is certain that their use passed from those countries to Greece and Rome, to all European countries and from England to America. Originally they were set in rings. The earliest references to them in Biblical history is found in Genesis xxxviii, where it is recorded that, pending certain negotiations between Judah and Tamar, the widow of his son, Tamar demanded a pledge and Judah gave her his signet and other belongings. And when Ahab, king of Israel, tried to buy Naboth's vineyard and couldn't his wife Jezebel "wrote letters in Ahab's name and sealed them with his seal." In the Book of Esther, chapter viii, it is written that King Ahasuerus said to Esther and Mordecai, "Write ye also for the Jews, as it liketh you. In the king's name and seal it with the king's ring, for the writing which is written in the king's name and sealed with his ring may no man reverse."

Seals doubtless were used long before the stirring events described in the quoted chapter of Genesis, but no one took the trouble to write about them. From the time of Jeremiah to William the Conqueror the pen was practically unknown to king, noble or peasant, so the seal was absolutely necessary.—Kansas City Star.

The Lure of Money.

James R. Keene, who won and lost fortunes and who played with millions of dollars as a child would play with a heap of sand, was once asked why, having wealth to satiety, he did not give up the game of money grabbing and seek peace, comfort and contentment.

The answer vouchsafed by Keene may be regarded as that which would be offered by many another man if the same question were put to him.

"Why do I want more money?" said Keene. "Why does a dog want another rabbit? Your dog will chase the millionth rabbit as though it were the first he had ever seen. He will strive and strain in the pursuit of it to the point of heartbreak. One might suppose his soul's life depended on the capture. And yet, should he overtake it, he will cast it aside when killed and begin quarreling the ground to start another. To the last gasp of his breath that dog will chase his rabbit. When you tell me why that dog wants another rabbit I'll tell you why I want more money."—Harry Furniss in Strand Magazine.

CHEVY CHASE.

The Old Rodgers Mansion and the Famous Washington Club.

Doubtless few of the many thousands of persons who have read of Chevy Chase have any idea of the interesting history attached to the clubhouse and surroundings. Part of the old colonial structure as it stands today was erected in 1747 and from that time until a few years ago remained in the Rodgers family. In the war of 1812, when the British were advancing on Washington, the army and navy records were taken from the White House and secreted in the cellar of the Rodgers mansion, where they were kept for several days.

The Rodgers family has been famous in the American navy, no fewer than seven having served as admirals. The estate consisted of something like 200 acres, and as the beautifying of the property was always a hobby of its owners it is not surprising that unusual taste should have been shown in laying it out. It is a fact that there are 105 varieties of trees and bushes to be found within a stone's throw of the clubhouse. Not far from the present fourth green there was once a sunken garden, but this is scarcely more than a memory now.

The Chevy Chase club took possession in 1888 and at first rented the property from the Rodgers estate, but later the club purchased 200 acres. Several horse shows have been conducted on the property, and some years back the regular old fashioned county fairs were popular there. The membership consists of persons prominent in Washington socially. It is only half an hour's ride from the treasury to the door of the clubhouse.—Exchange.

True Thrift.

"When visiting a certain town in the north of England," says a medical man, "I was told of an extraordinary incident wherein the main figure, an economical housewife, exhibited under trying circumstances a trait quite characteristic of her. It seems that she had by mistake taken a quantity of poison—mercurial poison—the antidote for which, as all should know, comprises the whites of eggs. When this antidote was being administered, the order for which the unfortunate lady had overheard, she managed to murmur, although almost unconscious: 'Mary, Mary! Save the yolks for the puddings!'"—London Tit-Bits.

Scientific.

"Mary Ellen, why is it you are always smashing your gold eyeglasses and the steel ones stick on your nose as though glued there?"
"Can't you guess why?"
"Not unless it's a sign that riches are fleeting and the poor you have always with you."
"Not at all. There is nothing allegorical about it. The reason is just scientific. It's my magnetic attraction, that's all."—New York Sun.

For HEADACHE—Hicks' CAPUDINE.

Whether from colds, heat, stomach or nervous troubles, Capudine will relieve you. It's liquid—pleasant to take—acts immediately. Try it. 15c, 25c and 50c at all drug stores.

Willing to Entertain Her.

My entrance upon my career as a charity visitor was as a volunteer. I arrayed myself for my first attempt with misgiving in my heart. I was so afraid of my reception, I found my first address on the third floor of a rear tenement, stumbled up the dark stairs and timidly knocked at the door. It was opened instantly by a small boy who peered at me curiously.

"Is—your mother in?" I inquired.
"No'm," was the prompt reply.
"She's gone to see the doctor. But you can come in."

He held the door hospitably open, and I stepped across the threshold and entered. I selected a chair and sat down. The small boy wriggled into a chair opposite.

"I have fits," he announced, with importance.

"Wha-at?" I stammered.

"I have 'em often," he went on eagerly. "Fits—real fits. I may have one any time. I might have one right now."

But I was already in the hall.

"You won't stay?" he shouted after me aggrievedly. "She'll be right back!"
But a very much upset volunteer visitor was already out of hearing.—New York Herald.

A Long Dive.

"A circus came to a little town in Tennessee," said Colonel Robert M. Gates in the Saturday Evening Post, "and one of the attractions was a high diver, a chap who dove from the top of the tent into a shallow tank, which is a feat common enough, but which created a deal of talk in that locality."

"The wisecracks were talking about it at the store. Many of them thought it could not be done without killing the diver, but one old man insisted that it was perfectly feasible."

"What do you know about diving?" he was asked.

"Waal," he replied, "nothin' in particular about that kind of divin', but I used to have a cousin who was the longest diver ye ever see."

"Longest diver?" scoffed the other sitters. "Where'd he dive?"

"Once," replied the old man, "he bet a thousand dollars he could dive from Liverpool to New York."

"Did he do it?"

"Nop, not that time. Ye see, he kinder miscalculated an' come up in Denver."

SHY LONDONERS.

Wait That Brands Them as Unsociable and Abrupt.

at a complicated thing in the acter of the Londoner. Out of shyness he becomes disagreeably out of pure fear of intrusion he is unsociable. A number of un-sainted men in the same trainway will never think of entering into conversation as they would anywhere in the world. Silently they leave as they entered it. And yet it not seem natural to me that they did not prefer to converse. But are afraid to intrude; besides, have not been "introduced."

proper introduction is one of the characteristics of the Londoner. In nearly when a man enters a private club containing people he does not know or if he sits down at a table in a restaurant—in fact, when he comes into touch with a stranger he will make his bow and an-ounce his name. He will introduce himself. Then both will chat like old acquaintances. But it is ten to one that neither of them caught the mountain name of the other, nor did they know. To both of them their meeting has been an episode to be forgotten the very next second. And it not infrequently happens that a man will turn to some friend, asking: "Did you see that man? Who is he? He introduced his name, but I did not catch it."

Now, in England to walk into a room where there is a private gathering and go around from one to another introducing yourself would, as I see, be held in bad manners. The Englishman wants to be introduced by a third person, and it seems that the third person will introduce the other two only if he thinks they would actually like to know each other. Then, however, the time is not only muddled or mentioned, but grappled with. The two men at once impress that name upon their minds, associate the person with the name and forget neither the one nor the other. An introduction in London does not seem an episode to me to be over and done with the next second.
It always the beginning of an actual friendship. And where friendship is not likely to ensue an introduction is left aside.—London Mail.

TELEPHONE TALKS

The Long Distance System

One of the most valuable features of our service, to our subscribers and to the public generally, is our connection with the extensive long distance lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the other associated Bell Telephone companies.

We own thousands of miles of long distance lines in the seven States in which we operate and in addition can connect any telephone in our system with lines extending to any other city in which a Bell Telephone system is operated.

These long distance lines are of the most modern and improved construction and are maintained at a high state of efficiency. The Bell systems operating in various sections of the country, are uniform in their equipment and in their methods of operating.

Only by reason of this close traffic arrangement between the Bell Telephone companies is it possible to go to a Bell Telephone almost anywhere, ask for "Long Distance" and be put in communication with almost any point in the country.

This vast network of wires, radiating throughout the nation, is used daily in commerce and for social purposes by the banker, the farmer and citizens in all walks of life and our plant here is an important link in this great chain.

FOR YOUR HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth. When Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do as above stated, it is not strange that we have such great faith in it and that we claim it will prevent baldness when used in time. It acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lend our endorsement to Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and sell it on this guarantee, because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store, J. W. McCollum & Co., corner East Main and Union streets.
